

Introduction

These reports indicate your familiarity with the course content and will help you create a personalized term plan with your Program Mentor. You can also discuss this report with your Course Instructor to make a course plan that reflects your needs and goals.

Interpreting this Report

The Course Planning Tool helps you plan your term and courses. This report shows you your self-ratings on experience and confidence alongside your knowledge of course content.

Next, you will schedule a meeting with your Program Mentor to create a personalized term plan that best aligns with these measures. Thinking about these questions will help you prepare for that conversation:

- What do your results tell you about how much effort you will need for this course?
- How do your knowledge, confidence, and experience align?
- How do you plan to use this information to help you grow?

You can also use this information with your Course Instructor to make a personalized course plan that reflects your needs and goals. When planning your term with your Program Mentor, discuss what questions you might have for your Course Instructor.

Remember – this information is designed to help you plan for success in the course. Your Course Planning Tool Results do not determine whether you will succeed in the course – you do!

Experience

Confidence

Knowledge

Project Planning

Organizational Needs

The Data Analytics Life Cycle

Data Analytics Tools and Techniques

